May Be Towed Off Port and Sunk in Deep Water—Suggestion of Beaching at Pearl Harbor Scarcely Favored—Plan to Cut Steel Hull Into Sections Also Talked Over

Slowly but surely the sad task of identifying with records of the living the fragmentary remains of the men of the F-4 is proceeding.

Two more bodies—those found yesterday—were today recognized by scant but sufficient clues. Both were members of the crew, and this disposed of the belief held to some extent that the body of one of the two officers had been found yesterday. It is now felt certain that nothing has been found recognizable of the bodies of Lieut. Ede and Ensign Parker.

Missing teeth in the skull of one and a personal notebook adhering to the bones of another, resulted today in the identification of the two bodies of the F-4's crew found yesterday, as Frank N. Herzog, electrician of the second class; and Charles H. Wells, machinist's mate, second class.

Positive identification of both bodies was made by Dr. William Seaman of the naval station, and Dr. Walter A. Cross of the submarine tender Albatross, who, in Herzog's case, identified his body because of missing teeth, a record of which had been made when Herzog enlisted.

Wells was identified through a personal notebook, containing items of a personal nature, made several months before the wreck, the book not bearing any record of the fatal accident, according to Lieut. Comdr. J. A. Furer, this afternoon. The book was found adhering to bones. The two bodies lay close together yesterday when uncovered by the workers.

This makes three of the ill-fated submarine's crew who have been identified to date.

No More Bodies Found Today.

No more bodies were found today, according to Lieut. K. B. Critchfield, commander of the submarine flotilla, and Lieut. Comdr. J. A. Furer, who at 2 o'clock this afternoon stated that activities today inside the submarine, which lies at the inter-island drydock on Allen street, have been concentrated on the battery compartment.

"We expect to get into the engine room compartment tomorrow," said Lieut. Comdr. Furer. It is expected that the remainder of the pitiful fragments which once were the F-4's crew, will be found there.

Concerning the disposal of the F-4's hull after examination of the wreck and removal of bodies have been completed, Mr. Furer said he has devised a plan which he believes practicable. "The naval inquiry board has sent a recommendation to the navy department as to the final disposition of the

SOLDIER SAVES HELPLESS GIRL FROM DROWNING

Private Fenske, 10th Co., C. A. C., Rescues Miss Cain From Deep Water at De Russy

Rescued from water 25 feet deep by Pvt. Fenske of the 10th Company, Coast Artillery Corps, of Fort De Russy, who had learned to swim only a week before, Miss Cain, a guest at Cressatt's, 2009 Kalia Road, was saved from drowning late yesterday, when she walked over the coral ledge of the channel dredged to the fort.

The young woman, who has been a guest at the beach only a short time, was in bathing on the beach a short distance from the De Russy pier and swimming pool. The channel at this point parallels the beach, and is 25 feet deep. At the edge of the ledge 150 feet from shore, the depth is about five feet or five and a half.

Miss Cain waded out, not realizing the ledge was there. She walked over the edge and sank into deep water, just as a person would fall from a cliff.

Pvt. Fenske, who had been in swimming and was returning to his tent wearing his bathing suit, heard Miss Cain's cries of distress and ran to her aid. He was successful in bringing her in to shore, and she aside from the shock to her nerves she was little the worse for her experience.

Hawaii's Queen Honored on 77th Birthday by Old-Time Friends, New Well-Wishers

Queen Liliuokalani.

Seated in state, her aged and kindly face framed in the yellow and black feather cape of Hawaiian royalty against which her head rested, Queen Liliuokalani received this morning the hundreds of visitors who came to honor her on her seventy-seventh birthday anniversary. All during the hour of the reception up and down Berehania street for blocks came those hurrying to the reception, or those returning with smiling, reminiscent faces, and along the curbs in front of Washington Place scores of automobiles were constantly drawing up.

A welcome reached the visitors before they came to the grounds, for the Hawaiian band kept up a constant and varying strain of music, now light quick time to the flutes, then some weirdly inspiring Hawaiian chant, or again the pleasing melancholy of the Hawaiian songs drifted through the trees of Washington Place.

Up to the very close of the hour the crowd grew and grew, curious mainlanders and wide-eyed Hawaiians, eager to see the last living ruler of the old Hawaiian royalty, and standing bare-headed under the palms with the recurrent beat of the ancient hymns about them, to think themselves back to the simple days before the great builder, Commerce, had found out the islands.

Dressed in a rich black gown fringed with shadow lace, her eyes lighted with the spirit of the festival, Queen Liliuokalani had a smiling greeting for each one of the hundreds and it seemed to many that 10 years had been lost from her age on this day.

Beautiful hymns sung by Hawaiian girls at dawn made a graceful opening to the day, and while the band was

BRITAIN BEGINS TO DEVELOP NEW EMPIRE WRESTED FROM GERMANY

CAPETOWN—Plans for the development of German Southwest Africa as a part of the Union of South Africa are going forward rapidly. The government announced a few days ago that it soon would unfold a scheme for sending large numbers of colonists from various parts of South Africa into the conquered territory, which contains 322,000 square miles and is more than six times the size of England. In area it equals the size of the Cape and Natal provinces combined.

Walvis bay, one of the finest harbors in the world, in the opinion of the shipping men here, is destined to become a greater port than Durban. It will be developed with a view to making it the port and health resort for Johannesburg. It already is possible to enter a train at Johannesburg and embark at Walvis bay for Europe. This is due to the linking up of the railway from the Cape Northwest with the German lines.

Dr. William Macdonald, editor of the Agricultural Journal, published in Johannesburg, recently has made a trip through Southwest Africa for the purpose of studying its agricultural possibilities. He says: "The country is made up of three agricultural zones, southern, central and northern. In the first the rainfall averages seven inches. There is a great variety of soil, but much of it is of a brackish alkaline nature. There are nevertheless numerous foder and salt bushes which stock feed upon. In the Kalahari region the sweet tamma melon is found. "In the second zone the rainfall averages 15 inches, and the country is similar to the bush and veldt lands of the Transvaal, being well supplied with rich sweet grass and valuable native bushes. The most elevated parts are excellent alike for cattle, sheep and horses. "The third zone has about 20 to 27 inches of rainfall. The eastern portion consists of flat, loamy plains well suited for agricultural operations, while in the east there are good rains and much grass, the region being suited for semi-tropical culture."

Australian casualties to date total 2,783 dead and 11,027 wounded.

SAW TORPEDO GO PAST ORDUNA 10 FEET FROM STERN

Ford H. Keith, Now in Honolulu, Was on Liner German Submarine Tried to Sink.

SHELLS WHIZZED OVER DECKS BUT MISSED FIRE

All Passengers Ordered Below While Great Liner Made Race for Safety and Escaped

"Out of the night the swift, unmistakable wake of a torpedo drove past the Orduna not 10 yards from the stern of the ship. That was the first intimation I had that the boat was being attacked by a submarine," said Ford H. Keith, the well-known traveling businessman who is staying at the Moana Hotel at the present time.

"I had been rather nervous about the voyage ever since we started from Liverpool, and there were general signs of uneasiness aboard the boat from the beginning of the trip. As a rule an American in England also lute refuses to board a boat which is not owned by an American company and flies the American flag, but my business at that time of the year was so pressing that I could not wait for an American boat to sail, and consequently I booked myself as a first cabin passenger on board the Orduna, sailing from Liverpool on July 8.

"The Orduna is a Pacific Steam Navigation Company ship which is now chartered by the Cunard line. It is a large vessel of 15,000 tons burden and it had evidently drawn the attention of the Germans by twice passing through the submarine blockade and safely landing cargoes in England. At least this was the impression of some of the officers aboard the boat. I talked with the steward, whom I had formerly known from a voyage on the Lusitania, and in the course of our talk he said with a significant emphasis, 'I know that the Orduna is a marked boat.' Events were to prove that he was right.

FILE APPEAL IN ROAD CASE SOON; SUIT WILL DRAG

An appeal to a decision recently handed down by Circuit Judge Stuart in which he found for the respondents in the injunction suit filed by Raymond Q. Brown, acting for citizens and taxpayers of Manoa, against the city and county, the supervisors and other municipal officials, will be perfected within the next few days, according to Attorney M. F. Prosser, who is acting as counsel for the petitioners in the absence of Attorney C. H. Olson.

The decree dissolving the injunction and dismissing the bill of complaint already has been filed by Judge Stuart. Attorney Prosser says that an appeal will be taken to the decision as a whole. The case probably will not receive the attention of the court until about the middle of October, because of the fact that the present calendar is a heavy one, and that briefs will have to be filed in the matter by both sides. All this will take considerable time.

In the injunction suit, the petitioner held that certain road work that was being done by the city and county was in excess of maintenance and repairs and therefore not liable to be paid for out of the public treasury. The respondents declared the work was not in excess of maintenance and repairs. Judge Stuart found for the latter.

JANE O'ROARK IS SERIOUSLY ILL WITH PNEUMONIA

Jane O'Roark, leading lady of the Jane O'Roark-Broderick O'Farrell Stock Company, whose engagement at the Bijou was cancelled last Thursday after she had suffered an attack of pneumonia, is dangerously ill at the Queen's hospital.

Oxygen was administered to Miss O'Roark last night by physicians and hospital attendants. It was stated at the hospital this afternoon that Miss O'Roark's condition is very serious.

The vaudeville star reached Honolulu on the Matsushima on August 17, accompanied by her mother. Their home has been in Los Angeles, though Miss O'Roark is known all over the world as the leading comedienne of the east where she has played on "big time."

NEW PEACE MOVE IS RUMORED Russian War Losses Are Huge

OFFICIAL GERMAN DESPATCH TELLS OF MIGHTY VICTORY

The following cablegram from official German sources was received today:

"German Army Headquarters, August 1 (delayed report).—The Hindenberg armies continue fighting east of the Nemen. The German forces are now before the outer line of forts on the western front of Grodno. The pursuit of the Russians continues between Odesak, east of Sokolka, and the Bialowska forest. Prince Leopold's Bavarian armies have crossed the upper Narew river and thrown back the enemy north of Pruzana beyond the swamp region.

"Gen. von Mackensen's armies were steadily pursuing the defeated enemy when they were stopped as Bochnia's army stormed and fiercely defended the heights on the eastern bank of the Styrpe near Zborow. "In the eastern war theater the Germans have taken prisoner over 2000 officers and 269,339 men; taking over 2200 guns and over 950 machine guns. Of these numbers the fall of Kovno gave about 20,000 prisoners, and 827 guns. The capture of Novogorodivsk gave about 30,000 prisoners, of whom 15 were generals and over 1000 other officers; 120 guns, 150 machine guns. The counting of guns and machine guns at Novogorodivsk is, however, not yet terminated. The counting of machine guns captured at Kovno is not yet commenced.

"The total figures thus will still increase. The stores of ammunition and data at both fortresses cannot as yet be estimated.

"The number of prisoners made by the German and Austro-Hungarian troops since May 2, the beginning of the spring campaign in Galicia, includes much over one million.

"The situation in the western war theater is unchanged. Northwest of Bapaume an English aeroplane was shot down by a German aviator."

CLAIMS DRUNKEN PARENTS BEAT UP YOUNG CHILDREN

"Vacation is always my busy time," said Miss Lucy K. Ward, secretary of the Humane Society, this morning. "In the last three months I have handled 185 cases of mistreatment of animals, and 57 children's cases."

"When school lets out in the spring the little people in many of the Hawaiian and Portuguese families are put to work in the canneries and other places, and the fathers of the children use the extra money thus obtained to buy liquor."

"Repeatedly I find cases of parents returning home from saloons at night and beating their children, probably because they are not making money; and it is always a relief to me when school begins in the fall. At most all the trouble comes in the summer of the Portuguese and Hawaiian."

INFANTRY WORK FOR ARTILLERY MEN UNDER WAY

Ten Miles of Marching Daily, Field Tactics and Exercises Will Last for Month

More than 1,000 men of the Coast Artillery Corps of the Hawaiian department, U. S. A., are starting actively today on the infantry exercises required one month out of every year.

This year's program does not vary in any essential detail from that of last year, according to Col. William C. Rafferty, Coast Artillery Corps, in charge of the corps at Fort Armstrong, De Russy, Ruger and Kamehameha.

Tactical marches under conditions closely approximating actual warfare, are features of the month's program. All the coast artillery corps in the Hawaiian department are taking part except Fort Armstrong, in this city, whose men are engaged in mine planting drill, working with the U. S. mine planter Major Ringgold, under the direction of Captain Francis M. Hinkle, commander of the fort.

Ten miles of marching a day and field tactics including maneuvers of advance guard and outposts, also some of the formations, are on the month's program.
